It's a brand new year, so let's leave the trials of 2021 behind as we chase down the treasures ahead

Let's face it, that was an excruciatingly unwieldy year. However, many of us are now heading into 2022 bathed in some sensational weather, equipped with a new set of skills and much more comfortable with a bit of online shopping.

While the course ahead is still somewhat uncertain, it has to be said that New Zealand has so far managed to weather the pandemic storm better than many. With our attention having been so singularly diverted by covid, it has been easy to lose track of what we were previously focused on: namely, a more sustainable approach to life within the increasingly threatened biosphere we all call home.

At Glengarry we're constantly looking to improve our game, and along with shedding our reliance on unfriendly materials, we are going out of our way to champion the wine, beer and spirit producers – both locally and internationally – who strive to conduct their business with a lighter touch on the planet. They do this in various ways and to varying degrees, but the important thing is that these companies, both large and small, are moving in the right direction, with longterm goals in place to be the best stewards of the environment they can.

Along with a sustainability focus, our attention in this issue is on offerings you may not have encountered before. New things to try! After a year of boring wrapped in scary, we think that it's time to put yourself out there and jump into something new.

It's time, then, for a bit of fearless.

LEARN SOMETHING NEW |

Wine Academy

Over the last 35 years, the Glengarry Wine Academy has established itself as one of NZ's leading wine educators, used by the hospitality industry and wine enthusiasts alike. Informative, but never intimidating, our Wine Academy courses offer a wonderful opportunity for both beginners and experienced aficionados to explore this fascinating world.

For the first time, we will be running virtual courses online at the same time as we conduct them inhouse.

Those attending the inhouse courses in person will be required to produce a vaccine pass.

STAGE I

Stage I is a hands-on course that encourages participants to gain 'wine confidence' by breaking down the intimidation factor and providing a good grounding in the sensory evaluation and perception of wine. The main grape varieties are discussed in detail, with wines from New Zealand and across the globe tasted to highlight the characteristics of the various varieties.

STAGE II

Stage II takes a closer look at grape varieties and the way they're interpreted in various parts of the world. Premium and super premium wines will be opened for tasting. It is recommended that participants have completed Stage I beforehand.

STAGE III

The third stage of our Wine Academy takes an intensive look at the world's key wine making regions. Stage III dives under the cover, where you learn all about the great wines of Bordeaux, Burgundy and many other significant locales.

Come along or join in from home to learn about wine in a friendly, non-intimidating environment. Make some new friends and have a whole lot of fun while you're at it. You may even want to bring a pal or two!

Emiliana

ORGANIC & SOCIAL INNOVATORS

Emiliana are the gold standard for biodynamic and organic winemaking in Chile. Their interlocking system involves a host of animals, insects and plants acting as natural pesticides, weed killers and compost producers. Equally inspirational is the company's approach to their staff. Emiliana's workers are guaranteed a fair wage, offered scholarships and furnished with land to grow their own organically cultivated fruit and vegetables for family consumption.

ARGENTINA

Santa Julia

This exciting Argentinian winery leads the way with their enthusiastic embrace of organics, sustainable practices and educational opportunities for their communities

Julia Zuccardi is a third generation scion of one of Argentina's most notable winemaking families, the Santa Julia Winery established in 1990 as a tribute to José Alberto Zuccardi's only daughter. Under the careful hands of winemaking manager Rubén Ruffo and vineyard manager Edgardo Cónsoli, Santa Julia strive to produce wines that express Argentina's unique characters while maintaining a strong commitment to the environment.

These are approachable, easy-to-drink wines with a committed focus on sustainable wine-making practices. The ultimate goal is 100% organic certification, which has to date been achieved at two of Santa Julia's three vineyard sites in Maipú and Santa Rosa.

All of the water used in the winery is repurposed for irrigation and only natural fertilizers are used, with impressive recycling and programmes to reduce waste. Santa Julia is the first winery in Mendoza to achieve the Fair for Life Certification, a programme promoting corporate social responsibility and fair trade within responsible supply chains. The vineyard site at Santa Rosa contains classrooms for adult learning, providing employees with the opportunity to complete their education. The company provides a creche, a gymnasium, a library, study zones and land has been donated to house a kindergarten.

Innovation encompasses one of Santa Julia's key agendas. Their vine portfolio boasts more than 35 varieties, sourced from across the world. These are vinified into small, exclusive batches in the experimental fermentation lab at the winery, with those varieties adapting well to local conditions in the running to become part of the Santa Julia varietal portfolio.

Crafted from organic grapes and offering classic Malbec aromas of violets and red and black fruits, this delicious Malbec delivers well defined, expressive flavours, rounded tannins and good acidity

MEAD

This honey-based fermented drink dates back to 7,000 BC, with many cultures having long brewed their own versions. Experiencing soaring popularity amongst a new generation in search of something naturally produced, modern mead comes in a wide range of flavours and styles. These Kiwi offerings are spectacularly good. Check them out.

Lone Bee

Lone Bee is crafted using the very best honey from the wide spaces of New Zealand. Mead maker Oren Dalton spent years fine-tuning his singular style and recipe out of the basement of his Kingsland villa. Oren has taken his passion for homebrewing and honey to a commercial level, showcasing a style of premium sparkling mead that is elegant, refined and absolutely refreshing. The Lone Bee is a lower-alcohol style mead and gluten free. It's the perfect addition to your chilly bin.

LONE BEE SPARKLING HONEY MEAD

500ML | $9.99

Using New Zealand clover and mānuka honey to great effect, this all-natural, lightly sparkling Kiwi gem has no added flavouring or sweeteners. Light, crisp, refreshing and totally delicious.

Beehave!

Beehave Meadery hums amidst a native bush reserve just North of Lake Taupo, and houses Meadmaker and Apiarist Jay Bennett's own hives as the source of its honey. Jay practises organic and holistic methods in caring for his hives to preserve the honey's natural properties and the health of his bees. Off-sweet and light-bodied, Beehave's Meads are naturally flavoured and delightfully sparkling, with each flavour accompanying an undercurrent of subtle floral honey.

Flor de Caña

These are superb rums; Flor de Caña's dedication to sustainability has seen their distillery achieve carbon neutral certification. The rum is distilled with 100% renewable energy and over 50,000 trees are planted annually. It is the only rum to be both carbon neutral and Fair Trade certified. The employees benefit from the company's school and hospital providing free education and healthcare. The rums are naturally aged in bourbon barrels, with no artificial ingredients or added sugar.

Absolut

One source is the Absolut production philosophy; every aspect takes place in and around the village of Åhus in Sweden. The distillery uses hardy winter wheat from the area, and the water is sourced locally from wells that are more than 140 metres deep, filtered through the Swedish bedrock for thousands of years. Sustainable farming techniques are rigorously promoted, with a strict set of protocols followed and crop rotation practised. Carbon emissions are offset by an extensive tree-planting programme.

Bruichladdich

Islay's progressive distillers are pursuing sustainability under four key pillars: Agriculture & Biodiversity, Packaging & Waste, Islay & Community and Energy. Bruichladdich are investing in progressive agriculture, reducing carbon emissions and introducing greener sources of energy. They aim to decarbonise distillation by 2025. They have removed single use plastic from all sites and continue to grow the economic benefits of their business into their local Islay community.

Isle of Harris

Brilliant gin. This boutique island distillery features Sugar Kelp seaweed, gathered sustainably by hand from local sea-lochs, as their key botanical. When there is no 'r' in the month, the kelp is left to recover and grow, ensuring the vital local habitat for sealife is not harmed. The spirit is softened by the fresh, low-mineral rainwaters which flow from the nearby source stream. Bottling is done by hand before applying the labels and closing each one with a natural cork and wood stopper.
